Art Unit: 1745

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Arai et al.-US 2004/0106039. (Arai)

See Comparative Example 6 found in paragraph 0118 in Arai. This example teaches the same claimed compound as applicant recited on page 23 of the present specification as in Battery 1 and as such would have the same discharge potential. The ethylene carbonate is recited in the claimed amount therein.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

4. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Noguchi et al.-US 2004/0202938. (Noguchi)

Reference is made to the Abstract in Noguchi along with paragraphs 0045-0051 and to Example 1 where the claimed spinel-type lithium manganese composite oxide is disclosed. The only claimed element not taught by Noguchi is the ethylene carbonate or propylene carbonate along with dimethyl carbonate or ethylmethyl carbonate. It is noted that Noguchi teaches in the last four lines of paragraph 0045 the above listed four compounds and wherein combinations of the compounds can be used in the electrolytic solution. To have thus used in Noguchi, ethylene carbonate or propylene carbonate along with dimethyl carbonate or ethylmethyl carbonate would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in this art because Noguchi provides for such compounds and the use therein would provide a high conductivity battery cell.

5. Claims 7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Arai in view of Noguchi.

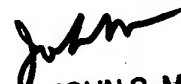

The only claimed feature not taught by Arai is the specific compound set forth in claims 7 and 8. Example 1 of Noguchi sets forth in paragraphs 0054-0056 the compound of claims 7 and 8. To have utilized the compound of Noguchi in the teaching of Arai would have been obvious for the high operating voltage of this compound in the battery cell therein.
